APPENDIX 1 - CONTEXT OF THE STANDARDS

All explanations regarding the standards provided under the Context heading can be used as reference points.

MISSION

Mission Standard 1

Compatibility and Communication of the Mission

Standard 1: The Language Program has a clear, written, and transparent mission that communicates its goal and is based on the needs of its stakeholders. The mission is shared with all internal and external stakeholders and reviewed periodically.

Context

The Language Program has a clear mission that is shared with program employees as well as current and potential internal and external stakeholders. The mission statement summarizes in broad terms the educational goals of the program, as well as other purposes. The mission statement serves as the principal guide for:

- administrators, to determine if decisions affecting the program or institution are appropriate,
- faculty and staff, to determine if activities carried out within the institution are appropriate,
- prospective students and the stakeholders, that have a stake in their choices to determine if the program's services are appropriate,
- stakeholders, to determine if the program has achieved its aims.

The mission statement is shared with all stakeholders through open access, the student handbook, the employee handbook, and other written documents. Because the mission statement forms the basis for all decisions affecting the program, the statement is periodically evaluated and updated in accordance with developments and changes in the program.

CURRICULUM

The expected learning outcomes at the exit level of foreign language preparatory programs that prepare students for an institution of higher learning whose medium of instruction is in a foreign language should be at a minimum level of B1+ according to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR).

Curriculum Standard 1

Consistency with Mission and Needs

Standard 1: The Language Program has learning outcomes that are consistent with the mission and are needs based.

Context

The Language Program has been organized in accordance with the institution's mission statement. As a whole, the Program is made up of different levels that correspond to the needs of the students. It is clear how student needs are determined and how the curriculum was designed to meet those needs. The curriculum has defined learning outcomes for each level.

Curriculum Standard 2

Content and Learning Outcomes

Standard 2: The content of the Language Program aligns with the aim and learning outcomes of the program, is in alignment with student needs, and is suitable to achieve the targeted learning outcomes.

Context

Every level within the curriculum has learning outcomes. All learning outcomes are written, observable and measurable. The outcomes also define the academic readiness levels. The content of the levels presented in the curriculum are interrelated and sequential, and are structured in accordance with student needs and the aims of the program.

Curriculum Standard 3

Curricular Design and Materials

Standard 3: The curriculum design and instructional materials ensure the achievement of the learning outcomes.

Context

The curricular design and materials are appropriate for the students to achieve the learning outcomes. The program design and materials consider student diversity and individual learning differences.

Curriculum Standard 4

Program Length and Structure

Standard 4: The total length and structure of the curricular program is in alignment with the achievement of the stated learning outcomes. The length of the curricular program has been planned to allow for learning, an appropriate amount of time has been devoted to each level, and the course hours and the structure of the program have been designed accordingly.

Context

The amount of time devoted to education is sufficient for a student to achieve the learning outcomes. There are enough terms, weeks and hours devoted in the program, and planning has been carried out by taking in-class and out-of-class activities into consideration.

MEASUREMENT AND ASSESSMENT

Measurement and Assessment Standard 1

Level Determination

Standard 1: The Language Program has a level placement system that allows valid and reliable placement of the students at the outset of the program.

Context

The Language Program determines the language levels of the students at the outset of the program through measurable and observable standards. The program provides direct evidence that demonstrates the psychometric characteristics (reliability, validity, practicality) of the level placement tools. In terms of reliability, there are measures in place to determine and correct faulty level placement. The program clearly explains how the process of level placement assessment is kept secure. The results of the level placement are kept regularly and stored.

Measurement and Assessment Standard 2

Level Progression and Completion

Standard 2: By using quality psychometrical measurement and assessment instruments that are appropriate for the level outcomes, the Language Program can determine if a student is able to progress to the next level and/or has successfully completed the relevant level.

Context

The Language Program has a systematic and understandable measurement and assessment system in place. To progress through the program, expectations from students concerning measurement and assessment are clear and understandable. The measurement and assessment methods used to determine level progression and completion are consistent with the Language Program's learning outcomes, and tangible methods (such as piloting of exams by curriculum and/or test developers in the program, developing exam specifications, etc.) are utilized to ensure consistency. Achievement tests, formative tests, progression tests, quizzes, student achievement files, performance exams, etc. can be used as a part of measurement and assessment. As part of the methods used in measurement and assessment, necessary precautions are taken to ensure the reliability of the subjective evaluations and the in-house standardization process (the same steps are also taken for level placement and proficiency exams when needed). The Language Program ensures that all measurement and assessment methods have strong psychometric characteristics, are kept secure and the results are stored systematically.

Measurement and Assessment Standard 3

Proficiency (The language proficiency for foreign language preparatory programs that prepare students for an institution of higher learning where the medium of instruction is in a foreign language should be at a minimum level of B1+ in accordance with the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages-CEFR.)

Standard 3: The Language Program assesses the proficiency of the students through psychometrically qualified tests or measurement and assessment instruments. The various instruments used to determine proficiency at different times are consistent in verifying that level achievement is ensured.

Context

The Language Program may determine proficiency through only one proficiency exam and/or more than one measurement and assessment method. These methods are expected to be based on observable, tangible criteria and be reliable, valid and practical. Despite being administered at different times, consistency in terms of level-appropriateness should be maintained, the results stored regularly, and the exam security maintained. The Language Program chooses equivalent, external proficiency exams in accordance with the relevant by-laws. The program ensures that the exams considered to be equivalent demonstrate the same specifications as outlined in the program's own proficiency exam.

Measurement and Assessment Standard 4

Level Documentation

Standard 4: The Language Program maintains written records that document the achievement of the exit level and the learning outcomes at the end of the educational program and makes them readily accessible to students.

Context

The Language Program regularly keeps records of or provides reports of the language level achieved by students at the completion of the teaching program. These records or reports provide important evidence concerning the quality of the program. The respective records or reports can be presented to students in the form of a document when needed. The document is expected to contain the following: The name and level of the lesson, course or program; the score or definition indicating the achievement of the program's aims and learning outcomes by the student; a scale demonstrating the levels of achievement that can be reached through the curriculum/curricula offered by the Language Program; definitions of certain levels of achievement indicated on the scale as observable and measurable outcomes. Not all information has to be present on the document. However, any information that is not included should be present in written documents such as handbooks, course syllabi and guidelines, and should be accessible to all stakeholders, as needed.

Measurement and Assessment Standard 5

Notification of Students

Standard 5: The Language Program regularly notifies students concerning measurement and assessment instruments and processes, as well as their own performance.

Context

The Language Program informs all students in writing concerning the measurement and assessment instruments and the system used to determine level placement, advancement, completion and proficiency. In this context, the program routinely informs all students concerning their performances as related to each measurement and assessment instrument. Those students whose performance has been deemed insufficient are also notified of their situation.
